

274. ira - subject of est, with contents as predicate adjective.
illum refers to Jupiter.

275. caeruleus - do you know an English derivative of this word? Note the -eus that tells you it's an adjective.

276. Why does hic have to be here and not this one? Meter?
qui postquam - connecting relative equal to postquam illi amnes. Note that tecta has the preposition omitted.

277. intravere - archaic perfect equals intraverunt. Note hortamine depends on utendum.

278. What mood of verbs do we find often in this speech? How do you recognize them?

279. removeo - think of an English word derived from the Latin. What form is found here? Hmm!

280. For the case of fluminibus, check the verb. For a figure of speech in this line, ask yourself if there are any horses to be found here.

281. hi - refers to the rivers.

282. There are two possible answers for the case and reason of cursu. What are they? Also, remember that aequora is a neuter plural. There are still no horses.

283. Ipse is obviously Neptune.

284. What does aquarum depend on? Be ready to explain your choice.

285. Watch the arrangement of the words here. What words go together?

286. cumque is simply -que stuck on the end of the preposition, as in the next line also. cum - the preposition here and in the next line - note the ablatives they govern.

288. si qua - equals si aliqua, as often.

289. indeiecta - note the roots of this word! Note that culmen is neuter, hence either nom. or acc.

Neptune - Giovanni Ceccari, 1822-1823

290. Note that pressae is the participle used as an adjective.

291. Note two subjects here get a plural verb, which does not have to happen in Latin.

292. omnia - the predicate adjective here is a substantive, as it usually is.

Neptune opens the springs - Virgil Solis, Edition 1581

Nec caelo contenta suo est Iovis ira, sed illum caeruleus frater iuvat auxiliaribus undis.

275

Convocat hic amnes: qui postquam tecta tyranni intravere sui, “Non est hortamine longo nunc” ait ‘utendum; vires effundite vestras:
sic opus est! Aperite domos ac mole remota fluminibus vestris totas inmittite habenas!”
Iusserat; hi redeunt ac fontibus ora relaxant et defrenato volvuntur in aequora cursu.

280

Ipse tridente suo terram percussit, at illa intremuit motuque vias patefecit aquarum.

285

Exspatiata ruunt per apertos flumina campos
cumque satis arbusta simul pecudesque virosque tectaque cumque suis rapiunt penetralia sacriss.
Si qua domus mansit potuitque resistere tanto indeiecta malo, culmen tamen altior huius unda tegit, pressaeque latent sub gurgite turres.
Iamque mare et tellus nullum discriminem habebant:
omnia pontus erat, deerant quoque litora ponto.
